Well, can you believe we finally made it?! You are my eldest and best friend. I don't know what I would have done without your crazy attitude around. When I was sad, you were always there to cheer me up, and I thank you. You have always been my one true friend. I could always talk to you in confidence. Thanks again! You are a super girl. I have enjoyed these past 18 yrs with you. Please keep in touch. I know we will. Friends like us will never die (or fade away). I can remember so many special times that we've shared together. Remember when... I'll cut it off now cause this is depressing me. Good luck in the future and God Bless you! Your loving friend, Cindy

CAS Tradition

The crown of the crest portrays the power of the lion and the scepter portrays his wisdom and ability to rule his kingdom. This symbol was developed years ago by a group of students aided by Mr. Leon Wilson, art instructor, who believed enough in Castleberry to create a lasting emblem. Stand tall and walk proud—it is ours forever to uphold and honor.

- 1) Standing tall, proud, and ready for action are starting backfieldmen for the Lions Richard Thornhill, Pat Majors, Tim Reeves, and David Torres.
- 2) A proud Texan, Governor Bill Clements, appears in Fort Worth to boost Governor Reagan's campaign.
- 3) Castleberry's own "home grown" Johnny Rutherford applauds the sextets as they honor him and his wife Betty.
- 4) The a cappella choir performs at the Republican Presidential political rally at Meacham Field.
- 5) Superintendent, Dr. Clarence Winn, displays his own "down home" ability to create in the Lions a sense of pride and accomplishment.

Teachers, new and old, gather faithfully for registration.

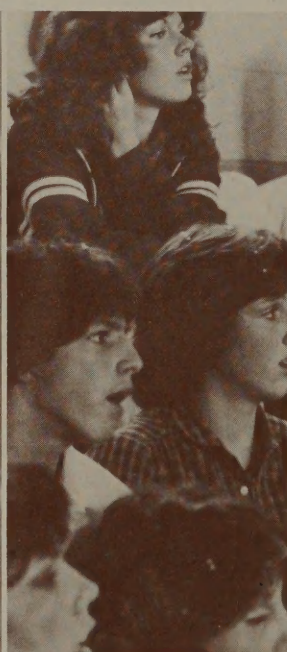

Our new exchange student, Henri Laugeson, demonstrates how to ski Denmark style.

Freshmen Greg Reynolds, John Carter, and Allan Payne attempt to fit in with the high school crowd.

The freshmen and J. V. cheerleaders set a new pace for summer cheerleading camp.

Newcomers Raymond Anderson and Cindy Burrow are flabbergasted by the sights of the pep rally.

Cindy Burrow is clowning around with Robin Walker.

At least the Lions agree on one thing — we're #1.

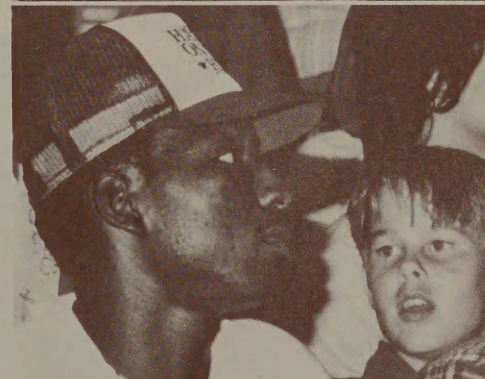

Castleberry's new basketball team has many hopefuls.

A new crew of teachers, Coach O'Quinn, Coach Hughes, and Coach Maryak, explain their mischievous deeds to Coach Richters.

It's Only the Beginning of a New Breed

The first day of school brought other firsts such as new teachers and new faces. Returning cliques brought enthusiasm, higher goals, new ideas, and determined plans of action.

Above: Sally Blair and Lance Blair are a new couple who hit the scene.

Below: Mickey Rivers, Texas Ranger outfielder, supports the Lions — a first for the Rangers and Lions.

Pete's offspring joins in the parade.

Mike Brigman and Bob Barnes enjoy a pep rally. Bob tends to show his emotions quite freely.

Tracy Fergeson and Allen Felts show Lion Pride in their own way.

The Halloween pep rally brings out the beast in everyone.

Brenda "Popeye" Green and Deanna "Coyote" Roberson get together to share the secrets of their double identities.

Ross Pollard, Terry Wharton, and Kendall Novak haven't learned to pick on things their own size.

Ronald Reagan, Roger Staubach, Jim Bradshaw, Jim Wright, Robert Conrad, Roy and Dale Evans, Jim Sundberg, and Morey Amsterdam are all influential celebrities that brought style and grandeur to the students of Castleberry.

The gang gathers at Pizza Hut to celebrate their feats.

Living Lion Style, What We Do Best

In an age when doing your own thing was the thing to do, the Lions truly showed their stuff in the only way students knew how — with lots of class!

Above: Who are those masked men? Why it's Otis Joines, John Remsza, and Greg Atteberry.
Below: Posters tell it the way it is.

The freshman patrol is on the lookout — Edwin Hefner, Nick Maynor, Kenny Joines, Randy Pearson, and Richard Ludwig.

Freshman Anita Goble has a strange way of sharing her feelings with others.

Robbie McClendon, Rod Britton, Bobby Stone, and Richard Thornhill remind the freshmen of the consequences that will be suffered if they step out of line.

Kendall Novak teaches freshman Robin Britton how to fit in at a skating party.

"Hey, back off freshmen," says David Hoschar.

"Hey kids, I'm a senior and don't forget it," reminds Susan Fuller.

"We can lick 'em anyway," says Kevin McIntire and Kevin Roberson.

A Question of Survival: to Be or Not to Be

As history goes, freshmen entering the new world of high school for the first time were confronted head on in a life or death struggle for their identities. Upper classmen intimidated and teased the newcomers. This activity did not necessarily restrain an occasional conflict among the upper and lower classmen. As some freshmen felt, it was every man for himself!

Kevin Johnson has no trouble being recognized his first year in high school as the Howdy King.

Bobby Parsons, Jill Dixon, Lisa Ticknor, and Pat Majors are just making sure everything goes as planned.

Eugene Abernathy shows everyone how a real roper acts.

Below: Andrew Ruiz, Brian Neal, Bruce Heflin, and Monte Winsett drum up some action.

"Mama Mia, but this is a great life," says Robbie McClendon and Otis Joines.

Jimmy Currie, Wes Miller, and Kent Adams are a couple of cool dude seniors.

Ronny Jones really hustles when it comes to basketball.

Below: John Fourie sings "Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory" at an assembly.

"Texans and seniors do it best" is Bobby Stone's motto.

Wayne Romo leads the school in a spirit chant.

Seniors Make Up a Class of Their Own

They finally made it — they're seniors and they want everyone to know it. From the football field, to the halls at school, to their favorite hangouts, they've had it all under control.

"You bet I'm scared; it's a jungle out there," says Donny Jones.

"Not this kid," says Renee Richards to Derrell Payne.

Above: "Boy, am I having fun!" laughs Wes Miller to Roxie McDonnell.

Below: "Three's Company" — Deanna Roberson, Jimmy Currie, and Retha Stratton sit back and relax.

Lori Cochran and Zana Pate seem to be inseparable.

Pat Majors, Greg Atteberry, and Bobby Stone dared to be dramatically different at the Halloween skating party.

The true side to Wesley Miller and Kent Adams finally comes out as Retha Stratton, Roxie McDonnell, Lisa Ticknor, and Brenda Green present them to the pep rally crowd.

"Hiawatha," Deanna Roberson, gives up her mocassins for roller skates at the skating pow-wow.

Not everyone has the basketball talent that Doug Chadwick and David Roberts possess.

Brenda Green is immensely baffled by the oddities of life.

Angie Brintle and Diana Nichols stand out in a crowd of Halloween spectators such as Marty Dixon, Lei Morris, Laury Listello, Redina Self, Glenda Pabalate, Denise Burns, and Leddy Bartee.

Jimmy Currie, Tim Reeves, and Richard Thornhill haven't heard that the wet head is dead.

Can Scott McPherson handle two girls at once? Only Anna Moore and Sally Blair know!

Renee Smith and Retha Stratton have dressed up for a night on the town.

Lance Blair, Derrell Payne, and Otis Joines have come up with a new game — rope Mr. Sperry!

We Dare to Be Different While Proving Our Pride

Difference was the mark that everyone seemed to want to achieve. The individuality of being different brought out unknown qualities in CHS students. The need to be different became more than a dare. It was the need for individual recognition as well as personal pride.

James Brown and Mike Brigman ponder Michael Mulanax's "condition."

"I just thought my heart would break," says Elisabeth James.

"There's only one way to eat these things — wolf 'em down," says Bob Barnes.

Lisa Porter, Tami Gray, and Stacey Warren are up to their old tricks again.

"My smile is giving me wrinkles," quips Michelle McIntire.

"Aw, tweet-heart," croons Otis Joines to Marla King.

"It's tough on us denture wearers," squeaks Marty Gray.

Below: David Torres rides high on Pete.

Craziness — the Natural Custom

The Lions found new ways every day to break the monotony. Their zany tactics brought fun, laughter, and new experiences for everyone involved. Life in the crazy lane became a custom at C.H.S.

"Here's lookin' at ya, kid," says Renee Richards to Otis Joines.

Coleman Culbertson and Chuck Makarwich insist on standing out in a crowd.

The wacky side of Marcy Asbury is revealed every once in a while.

"This is going to be one wild ride," says Nancy Neely.

"The world just isn't ready for us!" exclaim Marjorie Stewart and Cindy Browder.

Kent Adams believes crazy means cleaning up.

"Miss Langdon says no breaks this game," and Kathy Culwell passes this on to Regina Self and Glenda Vantrease.

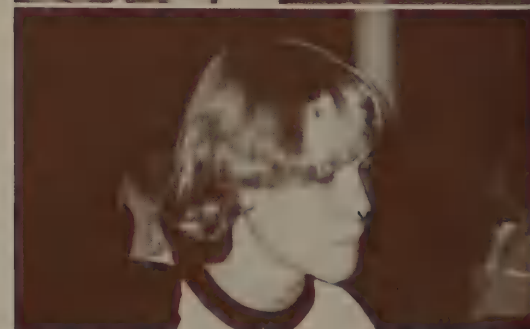

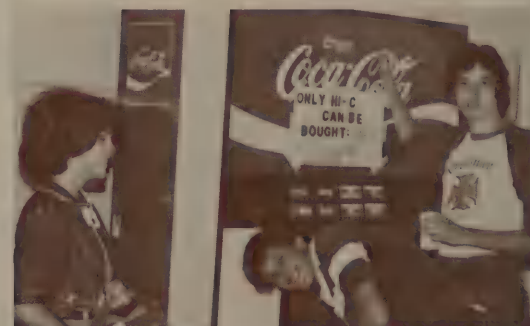

"Oh come on, no break?!!" screeches Jill Dixon.

So there's not gonna be a break, huh? Well, it's crying time on the old campus as evidenced by all the hankies.

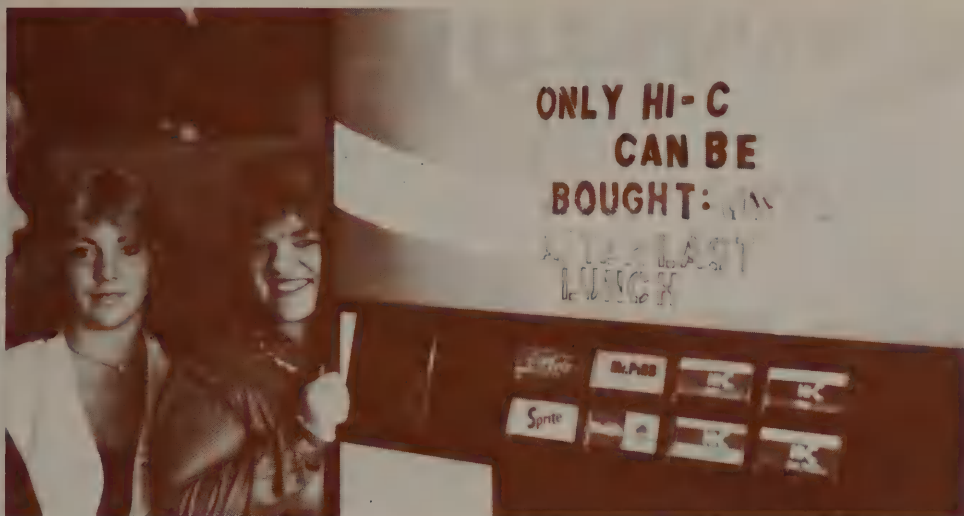

"Just waiting around for 1:30 so we can get a Dr. Pepper," moan Casey Bittle, Robert Brown, Van Warner, and Brad Martin.

Below: "Without my break, I'm lost," sighs Greg Culbertson.

"Drinking Hi-C doesn't get us down," quips April Pearson and Jacque Garrison.

"WHAT? Are you kidding?" Richard Austin frantically asks.

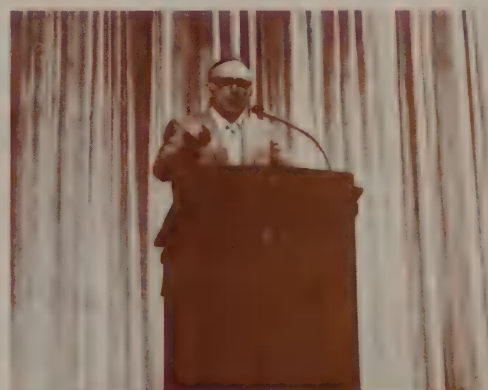

"Ha, ha, I sneaked one in anyway," says David Hoschar.

"Well, here's what I think about the whole thing," says Chuck Makarwich to Kirk Cullum.

All Work and No Breaks Would Cause Such Heartaches

Breaks were a big part of the school life at Castleberry. Students enjoyed and respected this privilege. For a while, the 7:30 a.m. schedule omitted the break and then when the break was returned it was under certain conditions — no carbonated beverages and no candy. Some students seemed to feel that without this opportunity to let loose with their friends, why come at all?

Above: "There will NOT be a break!" informs Mr. Barnes, the principal.

Below: "Why us, what have we ever done?" pleads Pat Majors, Jill Dixon, and Lisa Ticknor.

Martha Norton, Paulette Yosten, and Tim Sepulvado make a crazy threesome.

When it comes to friends, Hank Harris says that Gary Hinkel, Kenny Joines, and Kevin Johnson are the best there is.

"What do you mean, borrow money from a friend for a coke?" Just ask Greg Atteberry and Gary Lopez.

"Hey, we're bad," say old buddies Wesley Miller and Rusty Simpson.

"I thought big sisters were suppose to be your friend!" screams Carleen Richards to big sis Renee.

Through thick and through thin Alan Comtois, Mike Garrison, and John Carter stick together.

"Lisa Ybarra and I are buddies from way back," insists Barrie Sherrill.

Heidi Larson hysterically reminds Joy Crittenden that friends help out with the homework too.

A Friend Is A Gift You Give Yourself

Friendship — a member of the society of friends — is Webster's way of saying that people are attached to each other by respect and affection. Friendship makes the world go 'round and at C.H.S. one of the real joys of living is having friends and keeping in touch with them.

"My best friend is Timmy the Trash Can," says Elisa-beth James.

Shopping for companionship are Lisa Ybarra, Christi Makar-wich, Carleen Richards, Robin Johnson, Lisa Sheelar, and Patty Williams.

Above: "Phyliss Worrell is the only person that understands my disposition," declares Robin Johnson.

Below: "I'm glad that I have a friend like Debra Orzek," laughs Holly Miller.

Cindy Stevens is glad to have her two new freshman friends — Anita Goble and Kelly Moskal.

"But I don't have any friends," pouts Doug Chad-wick.

"We're just finishing up the quarrel that we started this weekend," declare Stacy Warren and Verna Hanson.

"I'm on my way to Shane's, of course," remarks Kelli Herron.

"I'm just eating a small dinner of steak and lobster at Bobby McGees," proclaims Dana Garrison.

Dana Laurie is going over her plans for the night.

Gary Jester is making reservations for his night out on the town.

"I'm going to finish my homemaking that was due last week," explains Kara Burk.

"We're waiting around for Mr. Right," sigh Amy Burda and Cindy Eagleton.

The After Hours Events

Admidst all of the studies and activities, students still managed to find diversions from school studies. Everyone had a different idea of how to have fun. Despite the hustle and bustle of school life, there was always time for after hours events and night time frolic.

"I can't wait to boogie on home so that I can do this homework," says Ken Hankins.

"I'm going to have an Aviance night," grins Anna Moore.

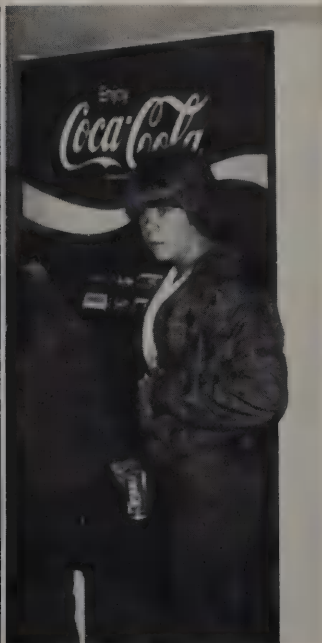

"I wonder if I'll make it home in time to watch Scooby Doo?" worries Jeff Hughes.

"I have to hurry home and call Kendall," exclaims Ross Pollard.

"I can't wait to get home so that I can see my baby boy," smiles Scott Smith.

"Wow man, I guess I'll just sit home," groans Richard Snider.

"Oh, I'm on my way to Neiman's . . . to check out the new mannequins," quips Robby Moore.

"We don't worry about things; we just blow it off," affirm Scott McPherson and Eugene Abernathy.

"I don't have a worry in the world," concedes Kim Springs.

Mr. Barnes meditates on the principles of school life.

"I just sit around and do nothing," declares Tim Wright.

"Alone is sometimes a good place to be," remarks Mary Goosens.

"When we want to talk, we have a rap session," reminds Susan Fuller, Melody Karr, Kathy Jones, and Renee Bianco.

Stacy Gladden likes to be alone when lunch time rolls around.

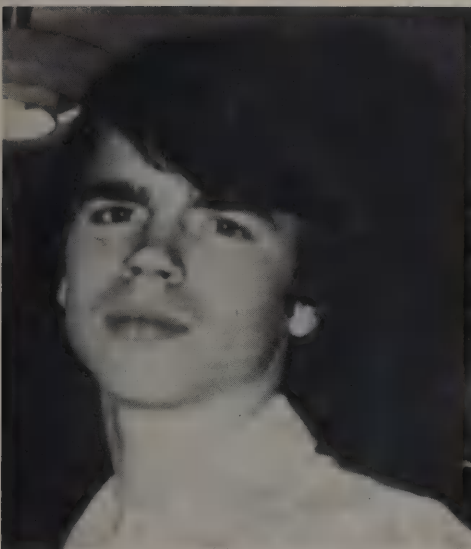

Sandra Dorsey gets the Monday blues.

Cyndi Gandy does some quiet thinking after school is finally out.

David Green and Bobby Smith take time out at lunch to think about the days' happenings.

Steve Speer is pondering upon the extensive activities of the day.

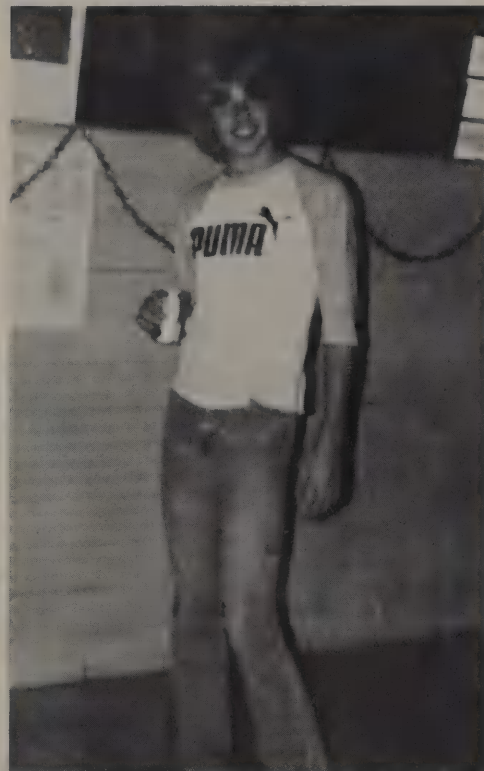

Andrew Ruiz and Steve Kloberdanz take out the day's frustrations by stuffing their faces.

Pete helps everyone reflect upon the element of school pride.

Time Out To Reflect

The reflections of the day bring varied reactions to those involved in high school activities. Whether a mischievous prank or an outstanding accomplishment, people need a time and place to ponder upon their previous escapades. Whether in a solitary atmosphere or in a group talk session, it paid to take time out to reflect.

Kevin Wilson uses his Hi-C to help him unwind from his school work.

DEDICATION

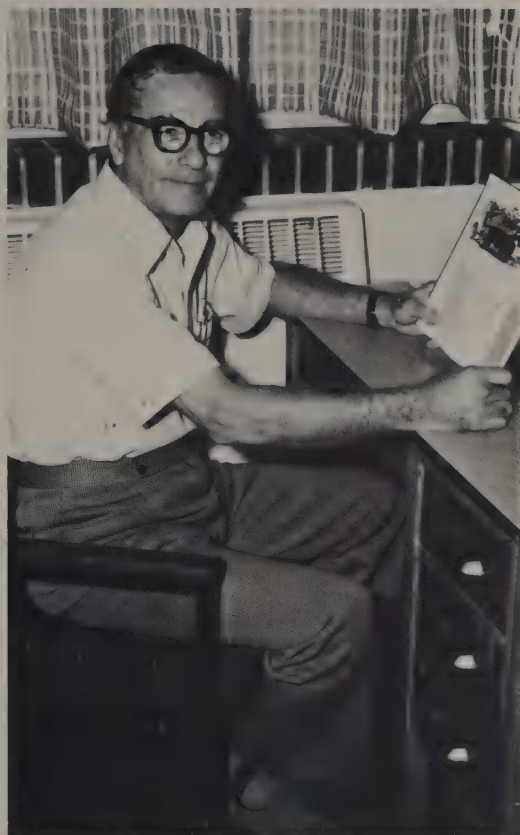

A teacher with a classic personality and a traditional character roams the halls of Castleberry daily with briefcase in hand and irony in mind. She brings a third dimension to the high school due to her systematization as well as regimentation. Her ability to assist students through discussion and essay to see how others view and live life adds to her philosophy of "it's what you do with what you've got that counts". She motivates the student council as it has once again become the hub of school activities. Because she is supportive and loyal, inspiring and creative, encouraging and helpful, we dedicate the 1981 CastlevIEWS to

Dottie Gray

HONORARIUM

Many years of honorable service to country and school have been given by one who is retiring with the closing of school this year. He has become an integral part of the student life and activity of Castleberry and has endeared himself to students and faculty alike. It is our joy and pleasure to honor. . .

Leo Sivley

Leo Sivley was born in Willis, Texas. His parents were farmers and lived far from school. He rode the bus daily and was not able to participate in sports because of this. He was an avid reader at a young age and still is! He is an honor graduate of Franklin, Texas, High School. After graduation he worked in the mountains of New Mexico hauling timber. He then began twenty-six years of service to his country in the United States Air Force and his life of marriage with his wife Alma. He served in the Pacific during World War II as a flight engineer on B 29's. He holds the Distinguished Flying Cross as well as many other medals. His overseas tours of duty include the Pacific-Guam, Japan, Germany and France. He retired from the Air Force with the rank of major. While in the USAF he graduated magna cum laude with a Bachelor of Arts degree from Southwestern State College in Weatherford, Oklahoma. He was employed as a technical writer at General Dynamics while he worked on his Master's degree at UTA. He came to Castleberry High School in 1970 — the year his only daughter, Shirley graduated from CHS. He is a Past Master of River Oaks Lodge, a Past Patron of Castleberry Eastern Star and an active member of River Oaks Methodist Church. Retirement to Mr. Sivley means enjoyment. The first phase of enjoyment includes spending a lot of time bass fishing at his lake house near Franklin, Texas. Also his time will include feeding the deer and birds and other wild life. Another phase of enjoyment will be trailering to Calgary, Alberta, Canada where his daughter and son-in-law reside with two special people — granddaughters Taina and Christy.

ENGLISH MATHEMATICS SPECIAL EDUCATION

Almost every kind of math imaginable was offered, and, as two years of math was required, many students indulged in this subject area. Three years of English was required. The students in special education branched out into regular courses as well as their own resource class.

For pupils who wished to further their mathematical knowledge such subjects as trigonometry, geometry, calculus, and others were presented.

English conveyed such pieces of work as term themes for juniors, the study of Shakespeare's Julius Caesar for sophomores, Dandelions for freshmen, and for seniors exploring communicative skills and Utopian literature, there were class discussions and Childhood's End to venture into. Seniors involved in British literature experienced Shakespeare's MacBeth.

Special education teachers aided their students in developing their individual skills and they mainstreamed most of their students. In order for these pupils to graduate from high school, one full year of work was required.

SOCIAL STUDIES-SCIENCE-FINE ARTS

As the year began and the change from the quarter system to the semester system occurred, the teachers again prepared for classes. Two years of history and science were required and government was made a full year course.

Doc continued his famous experiments, while Mrs. Deaver and Mrs. Thompson relied on their frogs and parasites to teach their classes.

Branching out from the symphonic, marching, and concert bands, Mr. Aikman taught his music theory class to present a different outlook toward the field of music.

Mr. Duke once again produced a prominent choir as was seen with the exceptional presentation of the seasonal programs, the annual musical, and various other renditions.

Mr. Wilson's art was divided into six distinctive courses, each reaching an individual plateau of achievement.

ATHLETICS-INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Through the goalposts or over the hurdles, over the net or through the net, driving on the fairway or batting on the diamond, the athletic department had something for everyone. Coaches contributed many hours above and beyond the call of money in order to give the students the advantages of a meritorious and challenging program.

Wood shop, metal shop and drafting were offered to students of all grade levels. The industrial arts teachers were involved profoundly with student activities. They spent many hours working on projects for clubs and organizations and they added immensely to the spirits of everyday living.

BUSINESS VOCATIONAL

With the rising cost of living, more and more students enrolled in business and vocational classes.

From these classes the students hoped to learn skills which would assist them in jobs and future careers.

The vocational departments provided jobs for students who, for various reasons such as economic necessity and being able to buy personal items, went to school for one half of the school day and worked the remaining half.

The business area furnished the pupils with an opportunity to acquire and improve certain categorical capacities. Second year shorthand and typing were offered and bookkeeping attracted many students.

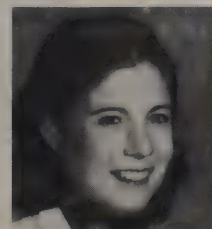

The child development classes were the highlight of the homemaking department. They also instructed in sewing, cooking, home furnishings, child care and other domestic pursuits.

1980-81 Ski Club

Largest Ever

The 1980-1981 Ski Club activities included a big fall campout, afternoon practice sessions, the Christmas party, New Year's Day skiing and the Fun Tournament and Show in the spring . . . but there was no time like that "Good Ole Summertime!" At the afternoon practice sessions skiing skills and knowledge were increased. The students learned to ski, slalom, trick ski, ski barefoot, jump, build pyramids, ride kneeboards, saucers, shoe skis and coil and repair ski ropes. Skiing was a hobby for all members — beginners and experts!

Students Become Witnesses

The members of Witnessing for Christ sought to learn more of the teachings of Christ and how to share those teachings with others. During meetings the members discussed such topics as how to witness at school and how actions act as a witness to the community. Local clergymen of all denominations were invited to speak at the meetings and community projects such as visits to local nursing homes were carried out.

Lion Spirit Prevails

Active students promoted spirit all through the year, especially during the fall season. Every Thursday, dedicated students spent many hours in the main foyer painting spirited breakers for Friday night football games. They also helped the varsity cheerleaders paint and hang signs for Friday morning pep rallies.

The Pep Clubbers organized themselves and promoted spirit throughout the school. They cheered loudly at the games causing a chain reaction that prompted the surrounding spectators to also encourage the team. At least half the pep clubbers attended every game. They were a valuable asset as spectators.

Math Club Engages Speakers

The Math Club had an industrious year. They went to TWU in Denton on Math Day and attended lectures. In December they had their Christmas party and went to see a movie. They had different speakers each month to present the programs. The speakers concentrated in areas such as computer applications, engineering, and other interesting math concepts. The math club went on a field trip in the spring.

Activities Engross Science Club

The science club experienced hectic times during the year. They had a delightful evening filled with good cheer and joy at their Christmas party. The annual Fort Worth Science Fair was held at TCU in March with the usual superior exhibits. The Brian Adams Symposium was held in February. The club welcomed several speakers throughout the year. Included in the club's activities was a field trip to the Fort Worth Nature Center. The science club witnessed many interesting moments during the year and managed to enjoy their functions while learning about the vast world of science.

FCA Influences Others

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes carried out their activities with the purpose of presenting to athletes, coaches, and all whom they influenced, the challenge and adventure of receiving Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord. They inspired athletes to serve Him in their relationships and in the fellowship of the church.

They met the second Wednesday during club time and on Tuesday nights. One of their projects was helping with the Christmas party at the Pythian Home. They attended the state convention in Houston. One of the major highlights of the year was the summer conference. There was an adult chapter for the Castleberry Independent School District which met for fellowship and helped fund projects to assist the huddle groups. The purpose of the huddle was to provide an environment for developing fellowship, personal Christian growth, service opportunities, and involvement in the church.

The school newspaper took on a new look this year including new staff members and a new sponsor. They worked adamantly and ardently to publish each edition of the ROAR. It was an eventful year for the entire staff as well as one of fun and enjoyment. They brought news to the school in the form of entertainment articles, sports, editorials, personal interviews and they brought to the student body their goal — a new look!

A CLASSIC TRADITION

Upon winning the first place award for the best annual in the summer workshop at UTA, the CASTLEVIEWS Staff started the year on a new high. Excitement continued throughout the year as they prepared copy for a most traditional and classic yearbook. Hoping to revive spirit and tradition, they proceeded through the year with the faith and assurance that the 1981 yearbook would be what they planned — a classic tradition!

OEA Moves Forward

The Office Education Association had an active year beginning with an officer installation party at Crystal's Pizza Parlor in September.

October brought the club together for a costume-halloween party and November was used as a planning month for the rest of the school year. A family with two children was chosen for the club to sponsor for Christmas.

In January and February the club went ice skating and participated in the District OEA Contests at TCJC NE. In March the students planned the annual Employer Appreciation Banquet at Colonial Cafeteria.

For Easter the club prepared baskets of goodies for disadvantaged children. And to end the year, a party was given in May for the seniors by the underclassmen.

VICA Prepares for Future

Vocational Industrial Clubs of America is the club name for Industrial Cooperative Training. It was a student work study program. The student was allowed to work during some periods of school classes, receive pay and gain credit toward graduation. The jobs were skilled and the students worked as machinists, auto mechanics, electricians, laboratory technicians, and others. In class, the students studied problems that they might face as a wage earner and citizen.

FHA welcomes Congressman Jim Wright

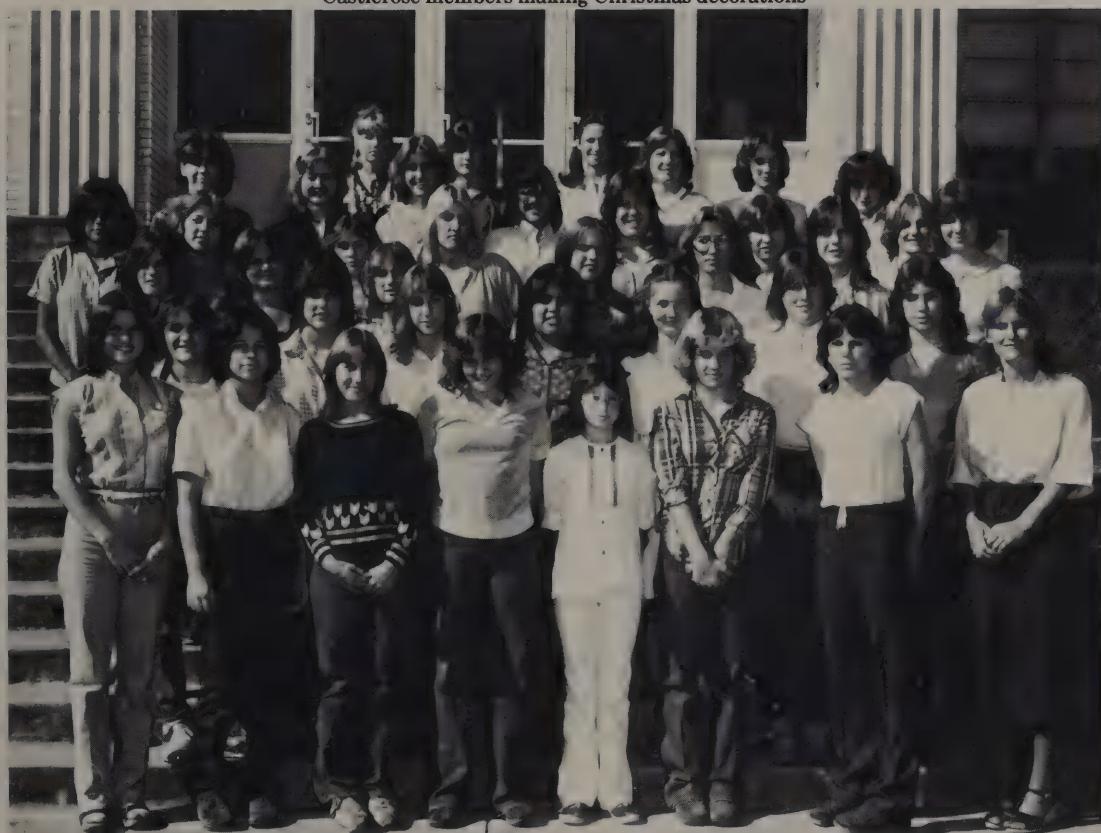

FHA Promotes Spirit

The Castleberry Future Homemakers of America had an active and enjoyable year. Programs were centered around personal improvement, self protection and careers. The service projects focused on local convalescent homes at Halloween, Christmas and Easter. Each athletic team and the cheerleaders were remembered with spirit surprises. The highlight of the year was the annual "Buddy Banquet" honoring the sweetheart, beau, princesses, duchesses, and dukes. Seven members earned their Encounter III certificates and were recognized at the area and state conventions. The final event for the year was the installation service for new officers and the Senior Tea honoring all senior members.

Castlerose Promotes Good Will

Castlerose has done many things during the school year. They elected officers and at the first meeting, Mrs. Caddell of the Cosmetology department talked to the girls about good grooming habits and used some of the girls for cosmetics and hair dressing models.

They took gifts to the Hilltop Manor Nursing Home and sang Christmas carols for the residents. They returned to school and had refreshments with the Key Club and F.H.A.

They attended the state convention and the installation of officers for the F.H.A. of 1981-1982. They were enthusiastic and responsive to their new sponsor, Beth Derosa.

Student Council Takes Lead in Projects

The Student Council sponsored various activities during the school year for the student body such as skating parties, a western dance, and a canned food drive. They assisted needy families at Thanksgiving and Christmas. Thanksgiving was also a teacher appreciation day.

The council was involved in the painting of posters to promote school spirit. They sold candy canes and school directories during December. For Valentine's Day, carnations were a way of expressing thoughts. In April, the officers attended the state convention in Austin and held officers' elections for 1981-1982. All through the year, the council improved school pride and spirit.

Key Clubbers Toil

As September rolled around the Key Club swung into action with its first project of cleaning the football stadium. Also in September they hosted the Division One Fall Training Conference. In October they supported the River Oaks Business Association by assisting with the Halloween carnival. Thanksgiving brought the canned food drive with visits to the rest homes then and during the Christmas season also. In January they participated in a volleyball marathon which benefited a local charity. They continued to sponsor the school wide basketball tournament and they hosted the spring rally for Division One in March. They assisted with the Texas-Oklahoma District Convention that was held in Fort Worth in April. They continued to furnish ushers for baccalaureate and graduation. They worked diligently and unselfishly for Castleberry High School.

VARSITY LION FOOTBALL TEAM

VARSITY LION CHEERLEADERS

Lion Spirit Never Dies

The varsity cheerleaders proved to be leaders in school spirit and pride throughout the school year. Long hours and tedious practice were put in by these girls during the summer in order to prepare for cheerleader camp and the year ahead. They took on new enthusiasm when they received two spirit sticks accompanied by excellent and superior ribbons. As the cheerleaders demonstrated their potential to present unique pep rallies the spirit in the student body increased tremendously. But even as the football season ended, the beat went on as the cheerleaders supported the other athletic teams. These girls were encouraged and assisted by their "omnipotent" sponsor, Mrs. Katherine Murray.

"Hey Lions, Bury the Pirates!" — the cry heard at the Granbury pep rally.

"We love our tubas," quip Daniel Conner, Kelly Tomlinson, and Alex Guerrero.

Spirited smiles are the #1 choice for Marla King, Bob Barnes, and Carleen Richards.

Go Big Red

The freshmen and junior varsity cheerleaders were enthusiastic leaders for their classes. Sponsored by Mrs. Carole Sheelar they added spirit and pep for football games and many sporting events. They assisted the varsity cheerleaders with their fun-filled pep rallies and pre-game activities.

To further their cheering ability both squads participated in a cheerleading camp during the summer after their election at the last part of the school year. The junior varsity cheerleaders were Robin Johnson, Martha Norton, Cindy Stevens, and Phyliss Worrell. The freshmen cheerleaders were Anita Goble, Becky Graves, Kathi Voss, and Robin Walker.

Otis Joines (67) and Lance Blair (75) play staunch defense for the Lions against Azle.

The Day The Whoops Turned To OOPS!

District play opened with the Lions displaying a "steel curtain" defense against the agitating Azle Hornets. Although the Hornets kicked a field goal in the last thirty seconds of play, they later forfeited the game due to an ineligible player.

Speed and big plays were the controlling factor in the 41-21 loss to North Side. Richard Thornhill, Otis Joines, and Bobby Stone led the Lionized defense in the hard fought game, but overall the Lions inherited a "bum steer".

Not being able to win at home, it appeared as though the Seattle Seahawks' curse proved an omen for the Lions. Homecoming brought a disillusioned defeat as the Bears dominated the scoreboard 14-6. A desperation touchdown pass from David Torres to Donny Jones brought victory closer as the clock ticked down. However, the official ruled the play out of bounds and Castleberry's hopes of a tie were doomed.

Lions On The Loose

The following week was a rehashment of discouragement as Boswell came out on top of a seesaw battle 19-14. Pat Majors and Tim Reeves led the rushing attack as the Lions played an intensifying but disheartening contest.

Controlling the Lions in the last game of the season were the Weatherford Kangaroos who won the 4A-5 West Zone. The Roos were as strong as the Oakland Raiders and left the Lions with a 38-14 loss.

In retrospect, the Lions, clad with "terrible towels", started with a Roger Staubach season, but ended up catching the "blue jersey jinx" only to end the season with a Dan Pastorini finish.

The football banquet was held at the TCJC Northwest campus November 17. Johnny Rutherford, three-time Indy 500 winner and home town hero, spoke to the crowd. Outstanding players were recognized and awards were given to those honored by the Lion Coaching Staff.

Winning Is The Only Way

The Castleberry Varsity Volleyball Team had an illustrious eighth consecutive winning season this year as they swept through competition earning the title of district champions. With a grueling pre-district schedule and a lax district schedule, the Lions reigned supreme once again.

The girls participated in tournaments in Duncanville, South Grand Prairie, and North Lake. They won first place in the South Grand Prairie Tournament with Kathy Culwell and Lisa Christoph receiving all-tournament honors. At North Lake, Jill Dixon received all-tournament honors.

With a 24-7 season record the team swept through the zone games without a challenge. The district play-off was in the Boswell gym against a spirited and hustling group from Keller. The Lions won in straight games with a good show of power volleyball. In regionals they were defeated by a talented team from Corsicana who represented the region at state.

Champions, One and All

The perennial winning pride was upheld by both the Junior Varsity and the Freshman teams. They each won the coveted title of champions. They displayed control and talent with which championship is interchangeable.

The inner spirit displayed by all the teams aided the varsity through zone championship, and regional play offs. This year Coach Langdon's team was consistently plagued by injuries.

All-district honors went to seniors Kathy Culwell, Glenda Vantrease, Jill Dixon, and Regina Self. Making the second team was sophomore Lisa Christoph. Coach Langdon was honored as coach of the year in district 4A-5.

All the teams proved to be competitors with a big heart and high goals. The future looms superior for volleyball in the Castleberry stronghold.

Until the decisive countdown of the clock, the basketball games proved that excitement reigned supreme from both sides of the court. Dominated by four seniors and aided by five juniors, the varsity team with its ample array of exceptional players took to the courts coming out with a very meritable season. The varsity completed the season with a 11-16 overall record and 2-8 district record.

These boys gave more as a group than any recent team. They worked well together and were consistent in their efforts to achieve unity and comradship. They added a running game to a press defense and gave the crowds much to cheer about.

Dribblers Display Talent

Potentially loaded with pride and ambition, the J.V. team provided challenge and tribulation for their opponents. Coming out with a 1-9 district record and a 10-18 season record, this talented team found casual shooting and random passes to be their downfall. They possessed the height, the speed, and the shooting ability but the reality never occurred.

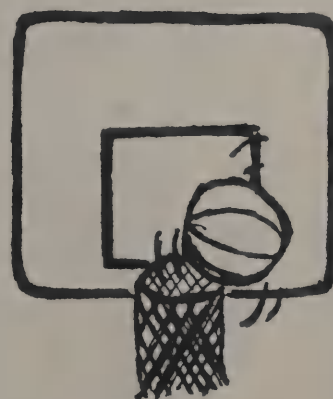

Through the encouragement of Mike Hughes and the inspiration of the Dunbar Wildcats, the Freshmen squad proved this season that they will become an essential asset in the basketball program in the years to come. Their stamina, their drive, and their inner incentive made them a contender in every game. Their enthusiasm for the game and their aspiration to succeed should prove profitable for both the team and C.H.S.

Building Season for Varsity

Goals of two different natures were set at the beginning of the season for the girls' varsity. With two new coaches the team planned to maintain high personal goals as well as to seek two points at every opportunity. The year proved to be a building one in both defense and offense with district play ending with a 3-7 record.

Lisa Kelly, Lisa Christoph, and senior Laury Listello provided much of the offense for the team as Teri Gilbreath and senior Jill Dixon worked the backboards to provide a strong defense. The abilities of juniors Patti Hedric and Brenda Green along with senior Kathy Jones gave the team variation in play as well as consistency in the line-up.

Jill Dixon (40) shoots as Patti Hedric (22) looks on.

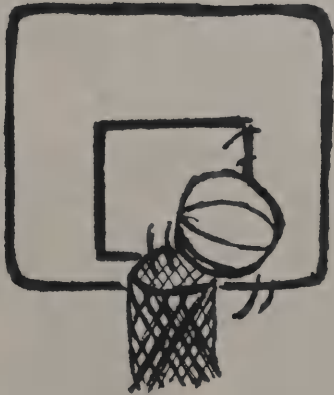

Lisa Christoph, Teri Gilbreath, and Brenda Green work together for two points.

Playing exceptionally well in tournaments, the Girls' Junior Varsity brought home several trophies. They attained third place finishes at both the Trinity and Grapevine tournaments.

Freshman Pam Winn exhibited leadership on the court assisting Lynette Biggs and Susan Green in putting together a flashing offense. Defensive standouts were Donna Burleson and Jan Davis. Providing the hustle and teamwork were Marti Dixon, Kelli Dearing, and Angie Daniel as the J.V. claimed a 4-6 district record.

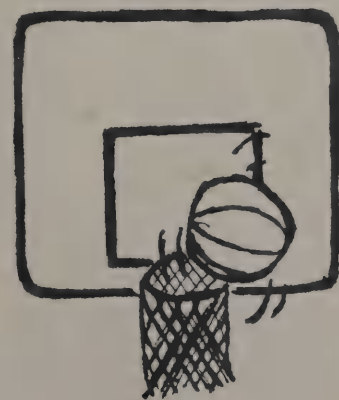

One of the brightest aspects of the season was the vivacious Freshmen squad. They gripped a 7-3 district record finishing the year with a fine season as well as proving to be superior supporters of other organizations. With four freshmen moved up, Lisa Sheelar and Robin Walker took charge of the backboards as Cindy Burrow and Connie Price captained the team on the floor. Adding dazzle and dazzle to each game were Lisa Ybarra, Kelly Moskal, Patti Williams, Robin Britton, Barrie Sherrill and Sherri Vantrease. The zest and enthusiasm of the freshmen brought a glimpse of the future to C.H.S.

The Swing of Things

"Take me out to the ball game . . .!" rang in the ears of all this year as the Lions finally had their own field. Playing at home made it easier for fans to attend the games.

The season started with a new coach, Harold Brown, and many new faces for the Lion nine. The boys were short on experience but long on desire. Returning senior lettermen David Torres, Kent Adams, Keith Jobe, and Jimmy Currie gave direction to the team. Returning junior lettermen Robert Brown, John Marlin, Scott McPherson, Gary Lopez, and Shane Beck added to the overall superintendence of the season.

The team had numerous pitcher potential but were lacking in hitting power. The season proved that the ability was there and the widespread interest shown by the J.V. team coached by Steve O'Quinn should make the Lions a future threat in 4A-5 West Zone.

Davis worked diligently with freshmen weightpeople Steve Askins, Victor Tovar, and Jeff Raley and had senior Pat Majors and junior David Hoschar paving the way for the younger generation.

A bright spot in the team was medium distant runner Nick Maynor who was a consistent performer. Senior Bobby Smith proved to be versatile as he ran sprints, the mile relay, and the 220.

The girls' track team was composed of a large and spontaneous group. They worked hard together and performed well.

Senior Kathy Culwell has been outstanding in track throughout her high school career. She has won district, regional, and has been a state finalist in the 880 meter run for the last three years. Generally, she has anchored the mile relay but this year she led it off. She has sacrificed herself many times for the good of the team.

Also playing leading roles this year were junior shot putter Angie Brintle and freshman long jumper Lisa Kelly. Seniors Glenda Vantrease, Laury Listello, Jill Dixon, Kim Springs and Valli Brenner have accorded track many hours of their schedule to assist in making the program the success that it was.

Kim Springs runs the second position in the mile relay at the Indoor Meet.

Freshman Lisa Kelly long jumps in the trials for the Indoor Meet where she placed second.

SENIORS LIGHT UP C.H.S.

On the night before homecoming, all through the streets of River Oaks, the C.H.S. students were stirring with excitement. The traditional homecoming parade proved successful and fun for everyone.

Floats, flatbeds, decorated cars, cheerleaders on a fire engine, homecoming royalty, and finally the lighting of the letters — C.H.S. — climaxed an evening of thrills and misty memories.

1) C.H.S. letters burn bright in the night, starting a new tradition. 2) Lori Cochran and Patty Geary smile as the parade begins. 3) Band members get ready to root and toot through River Oaks. 4) Homecoming royalty nominees seem nervous and excited. 5) H.E.R.O. float wins first in the parade. 6) Varsity cheerleaders lead chants on top of the fire truck.

HOMECOMING '80

As the night of Homecoming '80 occurred, many soon realized that this night would be the last of its kind. The Lions understood that a moment comes only once and when it is gone, it never comes again. With this thought in mind each Lion present in the stadium made each moment count.

Lions Are the STARS

The whole school got in the spirit of things by decorating doors and participating in an exceptionally spirited pep rally. Spirit boxes, mums, boutineers, spirit chains, confetti, exes, breakers — game time! There was something for everyone to contribute and cherish as his own.

1) Coach Hughes' door, Lions are a Knock Out, received the Most Spirited Award. 2) Mrs. Masters' door, Lions Strike Back, received Best All 'Round. 3) Varsity football players crash through breaker at half time. 4) Derrell Payne, #22, jumps for a pass. 5) Head Coach Sheelar encourages Lions at morning pep rally. 6) Mr. Sperry leads students in the spirit chant. 7) Mrs. Johnson's door, Waste 'Em, received runner-up for Most Spirited.

Unique Senior Class Produces Classic Vogues

An inner spirit of closeness has best symbolized the 1981 seniors. This special bond that has united them throughout the years emerged to its summit in the 1980-1981 school year. Whether selling senior candy, bringing rags to wrap the homecoming letters, gathering materials for the paper drive, or decorating the Christmas tree and foyer, the seniors responded with fervor and zeal and they produced many different styles of work, play, and study. They contributed many hours toward assisting others for the betterment of the class and the school. They were the true leaders — 1981 SENIORS!

Tim Wright, senior treasurer, manages to protect himself from another blow of the senior record book from senior sponsor Mr. Dean Richter. Senior sponsor Mrs. Laurie 177 Topham shows her ability to control the calm and poised group.

Juniors Anticipate Future

The juniors of C.H.S. have come a long way since first grade. The class rings represented the starting of the last great hurdle of hard work — Seniors '82.

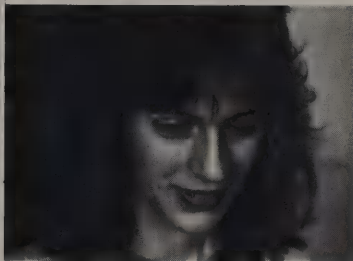

In academics, term themes were a major event of the year. Every second, minute, and hour of school, the juniors were enthusiastic and outgoing.

"Ah, that was the answer," quips Robert Wilson.

"Oh-h no, Mr. Bill" shouts Renee Bianco.

It has been a hard day for Cindy Browder

"Have a coke and a smile!" say Gary Lopez, Ross Pollard, and Kendall Novak.

"Want a ride?" asks Richard Mason.

"Why me?" asks Tim Reeves.

Karen St. Tours has had a wonderful day.

"Hi-O Silver!" shouts Scott McPherson.

SOPHOMORES

Sophomores Achieve Niche

The sophomores were elated to become a part of the upper class echelon. They no longer had to take the flack but were able to give a little. They progressed through Julius Caesar, theorems, and driver education. They used their energies to promote school spirit through the pep club, spirit chain competition, and on the athletic field.

Phyllis Worrell displays her boredom as Miguel Ramos' displays his coolness.

"I'll be so glad when tomorrow arrives because I get better looking every day," says Steve S. Smith.

Majorette Missy Witt performs during the 50's pep rally.

"Oh no! I forgot what comes next," thinks Amy Gribble aloud.

ABOVE: "Donna doesn't know we're on 'Candid Camera'," quips Susie Green
BELOW: "Don't bug me. I've had a hard day!!" mumbles Kelli Dearing.

"Did you ever hear the one about the Aggie who . . ." jokes Thoron McDonnell.

Wouldn't you give a penny for Carleen Richards' thoughts?

The attendance of the stage band in Poland made for exciting times.

Lance Blair, Bob Barnes, and Mike Brigman have a unique way of demonstrating excitement.

Dean Shackelford looks excited.

"Does it look like I'm excited?" asks Liz Carr.

"I'm so grossed out," says Gay Lynn Stevens to Amy Burda.

"Well, I wouldn't call it exciting," corrects Jana Palmer.

"I'm an exciting cowgirl and darn proud of it," states Kathy Culwell.

Anthony Comtois looks very studious.

Bookkeeping excites Melissa Apple.

"Don't I look excited?" states James Leck.

What Is Life Without Excitement?

The excitement in life varies from individual to individual. Students find delight in group frolic or lone enjoyment in the activities around them. Each endeavors to light up the life of someone, whether it be their own or those of friends around them. It is truly difficult to understand what life would be without excitement.

"But Leah Frye, don't you love school?" asks Sheila Green.

Wherever you find Ronny Jones, Donny Jones, James Ludwig, and David Torres, you'll find exciting times!

Basketball is exciting to Margaret Payne.

Bruce Heflin is having a barrel of fun.

"Hey, I'm really excited," quips Amy King.

The ski club makes an annual ski run on New Year's Day just ask Mr. Sperry or Dana Garrison!

Jannette Arthur enjoys the Valentine spirit.

The cast for Oklahoma gathers for the barn raising.

Amy King and Susan Fuller enjoy one of Mr. Mayfield's famous jokes.

Marty Gray represents FHA's 1981 beau and Kathy Culwell is the sweetheart.

John Paul Goble and Steve Holland enjoy the Baltic Sea.

Steve Speer, Andrew Ruiz, and Bruce McAllister indulge in Christmas frolic.

Beyond Our Domain

The pastimes of the students are not always determined by the activities related to school. Many students fulfill their outside lives with the varied aspects of private fulfillment. A highnote for high school students is being able to find enjoyment in the things that make one the happiest. The challenges, goals, and personal satisfaction that longs to be discovered are frequently found beyond the everyday domain.

The marquee introduces the stage band at the Poland Jazz Show.

Some of the leads in Oklahoma enjoying their roles.

Richard Ludwig, Tim Reeves, and George Hulvey remove the symbols recognizing the freeing of the hostages from Iran.

Kathi Voss enjoys her tokens of love.

The leads, Eugene Abernathy and Deanna Roberson, act the parts for Oklahoma.

Susan Hurtt gives her all in the talent show.

"Why did I take Utopian Lit.?" asks Joy Crittenden.

"It's finally 3:30," sighs Suzanne Odom.

Cary Voss practices for another debate tournament.

"I'm gonna sic my brothers on you," smirks Kathy Jones.

Patricia Perez is trying to look bored.

"I'm quite a character," explains Angie Quayle.

"The shipment for the Roar is due when?" asks Marlena Miller.

Melissa Montgomery already looks like a happy homemaker.

"Dynamite comes in small packages," reminds Laura Shoppell.

Glenda Vantrease likes to make faces at her friends.

Patty Hedric is wild about her profile.

Brenda Winaski seems disgusted with school.

A Collage of Chargers

A permeation of personalities made for an interesting class of people around the campus. Their individual pursuits as well as their unconformity gave the school a savory flavor. The tinge of characters that infiltrated the school truly made the student body blend into a college of characters.

"Come on Valli, let the whole world know," says Deanna Cozart.

John Fourie and Ricky Hoeppner give the sextet girls a smile.

Kay Hartman is visiting her dream world.

Michael Mulanax enriches the talent show program.

Lindy McDaniel and Laury Listello share a bit of sisterly love.

Mrs. Harris and Shelly Harris make a happy team.

Redina and Regina Self are a double trouble duo.

"Smile Dad," says David to Mr. McIntire.

"Oh Mom, don't be embarrassed," insists Rod of Mrs. Britton.

"I'm the only one that doesn't mind getting sent to the office," replies Kathy Culwell to Mr. Culwell.

"Don't try to tell us that we look like each other," gripe cousins Bobby Herrera and Andrew Ruiz.

"I'm proud to have a sister like Laura," grins Wayne Romo.

I REALLY AM

Family Trees

As students discover their roots, they become closer entwined with their own immediate family.

In order to grow, to mature, and to become individualistic, support is needed. Families are generally able to give that support. These seniors are pictured with their school family. As all seniors venture into the world, home will become a fond and warm memory and a place one can return to for moral and emotional guidance.

If only Mr. Barnes knew what son Bob was doing behind his back.

It is time to say good-bye to these private moments of high school.

These classic times we have had together will always be alive in our hearts. The time is here.

Perhaps in another time or in another place these moments would never end, but end they must.

We can be strong. Let us listen to our hearts singing. We are friends who have shared secret thoughts and secret dreams. We have grown to care for each other, to hurt for each other, to laugh with each other, and to weep with each other. We treasure our friendships for in our own ways we will be very much a part of each other as we pursue our destinies through life. A part of us will forever be gone from C.H.S., but memories will last a lifetime.

Together we weathered the year; together we have become as one toward our high school goal; together we have found our pot of gold; together we will take one giant step for mankind because together THE CLASS OF 1981 IS THE BEST!

*Day is done, gone the sun
From the lake, from the hill, from the sky.
All is well, safely rest,
God is nigh.*

Cindy

Cindy,
 We've known each other for a long, long while. Although we've never been too close
 I've always admired
 you. I know you'll be a success in "the real world."
 You have a really radiating personality. I like anyone who can keep a smile on their face and that's why I consider you my friend. The best of luck in the future.

Your friend
 Jean Blaine

Cindy,
 It's been fun in the "other hand"
 this year. I think we've only taught the freshman one thing and that is that we have big muscles! Luck to ya this summer,
 good or bad, that's up to you! I'll come by and see the new assistant manager at Dairy Queen
 this summer and it
 had better be you!
 See Ya Later!

Love,
 Blaine
 Junior 82?

Cindy,

It's been fantastic if not better being your friend. You are ~~trusting~~, loyal, and friendly. (to some people!) I hope that you and Patty have a good time in the summer with the apartment (if you'll ever find one nice enough).

If you ever need any help with any people you can count on me! I'll tear down the big pecan tree in my front yard and make my ~~stuck~~ (big) berth.

I hope that we can go running around a lot this summer, and stir some of the "rent-a-cops" around to where they don't know which way they're going. Good luck with everything, and you don't have to resist anything (esp. temptations) You better keep in touch always or the ghost of Kimmy will haunt you.

See Ya Always,
Kim & Betty

I just can't resist a clean page.

The end of the year is nearing
The doors then gonna lock no knock can ever open the door to times gone by.
~~And~~ our memories linger on,
as the past floats on and on.

excitement fills the air

The oncoming summer and the graduating seniors (you)
Bring both happiness and sorrow, to our lives.

I just want to say Good Luck!

Good Luck with future,
not telling where the future will take you.

Good Luck with Bartee,
no wonder if ya'll will be married.

Best Friends now and hopefully forever.

The way of the world is rough but
The way of us is tough we can take
And you wait and see we're gonna make it. So you mentally off it only makes the world a bit more enjoyable
And interesting! Lots of Luck And the best of wishes. And just remember it's the little things that count!

Your Friend Always
